Drifting.

BY T. BUCHANAN READ.

My soul to-day is far away Sailing the Vesuvian Bay, My wanged boat, a bird affoat, Swims round the purple peaks remote. Round purple peaks it sails and seeks Blue inlets and their crystal creeks,

A duplicated golden glow. Far, vague, and dim the mountains swim; While on Vesuvius' misty brim, With outstretched hands, the gray smoke stands, O'erlooking the volcanic lands,

Where high rocks thr w, through deeps below,

Here Ischia smiles o'er liquid miles; And yonder, bluest of the isles, Calm Capri walts, her sapphire gates Beguiling to her bright estates.

I heed not, if my rippling skiff Float swift or slow from cliff to cliff; With dreamful eyes my spirit lies Under the walls of Paradise. Under the walls where swells and falls The Bay's deep breast at intervals,

At peace I he, blown sofily by, A cloud upon this liquid sky. The day so mild, is heaven's own child, With earth and ocean reconciled; The airs I feel around me steal

Are murmuring to the murmuring keel. Over the rail my hand I trail. Within the shadow of the -ail. A Joy intense, the cooling sense Glides down my drowsy idolence.

With dreamful eyes my spirit flies Where summer sings and never dies-O'erveiled with vines, she grows and shines Among her future oils and wines

Her children, hid the cliffs amid, Are gamboling with the gamboling kid; Or down the walls, with tip-y calls, Laugh on the rock like waterfalls.

The fisher's child, with tresses wild, Unto the smooth, bright sand beguiled, With glowing lips sings as she skips, Or gazes at the far-off ships.

You deep bark goes where traffic blows, From lands of sun to lands of snows; This happier one, its course has run From lands of snow to lands of sun. Oh! happy ship, to rise and dip,

With the blue crystal at your lio! On happy crew, my heart's with you Sails, and sails, and sings anew! No more, no more the worldly shore Upbraids me with its loud uproar! With dreamful eyes my spirit lies Under the walls of Paradise! ----General Order No. 113.

MARSHVILLE, Oct. 22 - The following has been received at General Cartis's headquarters: On the evening of the 20th I received information of a party of rebels moving up Maugua Creek, making for a point eight miles east of this place, and en route to join a rebel force in the South west. I immediately took 105 of the 10th Illinois cavalry and started at five o'clock in the afternoon to intercept them, came on their pickets about half-past eight o'clock, drove them in and attacked the main force, about 200 strong, killing four and wounding many, as I afterward understood, and capturing twenty seven prisoners, among them one Captain who informed me Colonel Dorsey was in command. We likewise captured a number of horses, saddles, shot guns, muskets and rifles. My loss was one killed and one wounded. This party was organized by Rucker and Hughes, who sign themselves Majors in the rebel They scattered in every direction through the mountains, a large portion returning in the same
